Representative Matters

Recent trial and appellate successes include:

- Successful bench trial, with Monica Narvaez, where the court in Collin County enforced a training expense repayment contract on behalf of our plaintiff client, a local air carrier. The court found that the defendant, a former pilot employed by the carrier, was obligated to repay training costs; the court awarded all of the requested attorneys' fees.
- Take-nothing Judgment after trial for developer of a lucrative oil and gas lease against fraud and breach of contract claims brought by investors;
- Take-nothing Judgment after trial of fraudulent transfer claims brought by a major bank that sought to enforce a prior judgment by collecting the client company's assets; and
- $48 million Judgment, affirmed on appeal, for defrauded investors in a dispute involving several failed real estate developments. (See also this article from The Dallas Morning News.)

Other notable trial and appellate successes include:

- Judgment turning over control of a helmet manufacturing company and its intellectual property to the company's former chief executive officer;
- Reversal on appeal of several bankruptcy court orders adjudicating shareholders' equitable subordination and relative priority claims in a bankruptcy involving a major oil and gas exploration and development company;
- Take-nothing Judgment in favor of a former company officer in defense of breach of fiduciary duty and related business tort claims alleging damages in excess of $8 million;
- Take-nothing Judgment in favor of a major developer of wind-powered electricity in defense of a $30+ million liquidated damage claim for breach of a power purchase agreement; (see also this San Angelo Standard-Times article);
- $4 million Judgment, affirmed on appeal, obtained against former company officers for breach of fiduciary duty; and
- Successful trial of claims brought by a motion picture company for breach of a licensing agreement to exploit the Academy Award-winning film Monster.
