Practice Areas

General Civil Litigation with significant experience in:

- Personal Injury - Catastrophic traumatic brain injury and wrongful death
- Toxic, Mass Torts, and Environmental Law
- Business Torts and complex commercial cases

Practice Emphasis

Stephen is Of Counsel in the general Civil and Commercial Litigation practice groups of Cowles & Thompson. For 25 years, Stephen has leveraged his CPA and CEO/CFO experience as a lead litigator, successfully defending high-value cases across a range of legal practices. He has handled cases for both the Defense and Plaintiff sides of the bar, gaining experience and extra skills used to anticipate and understand the legal strategy and intricacies of each side, and has litigated cases in many different states applying various states' laws. Moreover, a vast majority of Mr. Drinnon's trial experience was earned in federal courts.

Stephen's defense work began with vehicle collision and medical malpractice matters. It then developed to routinely involve complex commercial disputes, including leading NYSE-500 parties and catastrophic traumatic brain injury (TBI) cases with life care plans exceeding $60 million in financial damages. He successfully defended such injury cases and wrongful death cases on behalf of American manufacturers of children's products in Texas and across the nation with a federal jurisdiction emphasis.

On the plaintiff's side, Stephen gained national prominence with the initial filing of claims against a world-wide pharmaceutical giant on behalf of the family of a victim whose death was caused by a diabetes drug. Stephen's trial experience encompasses employment law case wins, firearm litigation in numerous states and federal court jurisdiction and venue.

Representative Matters

- As lead Defense litigator, obtained summary judgment in a personal injury, wrongful death case of a child in federal district court in Houston, Texas, and defended the judgment in the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals, which resulted in costs-only settlement while on appeal.
- As lead Plaintiff litigator, obtained favorable verdict and settlement two weeks into trial in two employment discrimination cases tried in Dallas, Texas against a New York Stock Exchange Index-listed communications company with 300,000 employees based in Dallas, Texas.
- As lead Plaintiff litigator, obtained a default judgment in District Court in Nolan County, Texas, and defended the default judgment after removal to the U.S. District Court Northern Division of Texas with creation and novel use of the alter ego theory that was upheld on appeal by the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.
- As a commercial litigator, pursued a trademark infringement case (LANHAM Act) claim against a national and international tennis shoe manufacturer, a professional basketball association, a professional basketball team, and a prominent professional basketball player in Federal Court, Portland, Oregon.
