Practice Emphasis

Lené Alley DeRudder is an equity Shareholder and experienced family and divorce attorney with a successful record of positive outcomes for her clients. Lené focuses on complex divorce matters and high-net-worth estates, especially where multiple business entities are involved.

As a collaboratively trained attorney, Lené is thrilled to offer a different way to divorce. Although a veteran litigator who has tried multiple family law matters to jury, Lené is an advocate of the Collaborative Divorce process because it places control in her clients' hands, not with a court.

Regardless whether a matter requires traditional litigation or the collaborative process, Lené is strategic in her approach, tenacious in her advocacy, and mindful of obtaining resolution while reducing as much emotional, mental, and financial damage as possible. As a respected and recognized leader in the family law community, Lené has appeared as a guest on broadcast television and radio nationwide. She primarily practices in Collin, Dallas, and Denton counties.

Representative Matters

- Successfully obtained summary judgment confirming business entities as client's separate property.
- Represented numerous high-net-worth clients in divorces that involved marital assets and estates at or above $5 million and obtained disproportionate divisions of property for clients.
- Successfully reversed supervised restriction on father's possession.
- Obtained favorable outcome in jury trial where client was awarded sole conservatorship, opposing party was awarded supervised possession, and client received disproportionate division of property.
- Obtained exclusive right to designate primary residence for mother in highly contentious matter where custody evaluation was in favor of the father.
- Obtained exclusive right to designate primary residence for a father after a week-long jury trial.
- Obtained a reverse and remand on appeal in termination of a father's parental rights.
